GET TO KNOW SOME OF
OUR PEOPLE

Julie Peake,
Associate Project Manager

What does a typical day look like for you?

My role involves managing multiple capital projects including cost and contract management, daily liaison with contractors and our project design team to ensure that projects are delivered to Client and stakeholder requirements, programme and within budget where possible.

How long have you been at Henry Riley?

10 years.

What Clients are you working with at the moment?

I am currently working with University College London Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust (UCLH).

What qualifications have you gained or courses have you done whilst being employed by Henry Riley?

I have achieved an HNC in construction and MSc in Project Management in the Built Environment.

What do you enjoy most about your job?

I love the variety of the role in terms of the diversity of projects we manage within the NHS, the complexity of managing the projects on-site, the diversity of the stakeholders and different people we meet and the fact that I literally learn something new every day. Working for the NHS feels particularly fulfilling and like I've contributed to a very worthwhile cause when you see the projects completed.

130

As Henry Riley is celebrating 130 years in business this year. Is there anything you'd like to say about working for a company with such history, or a memory that will always make you fond of your time here so far?

Alongside its long history, Henry Riley as a company has a family feel about it and whilst we are all striving to do the best for our Clients, I do feel that both Henry Riley as an employer and its employees value and support each other.

What's your favourite thing to do when you're not at work?

I'm a keen horse rider so I would say riding my horse, who goes by the stable name of Harry, is my favourite thing to do outside of work.
